Fiscal Year 2010 (which ended on August 31, 2010) was another “winning” year for the Texas Lottery, its players, Texas education and other state programs! This year the Texas Lottery contributed nearly $1.095 billion to the state of Texas, the highest total of transfers to the state since FY 1998. Total sales were the fourth highest ever at $3.74 billion.

Texas Lottery players won big in FY 2010. William Kiefer of Katy led the way with a Mega Millions® win worth $144 million, but plenty of other Texans from around the state were made millionaires by the Texas Lottery this year. Prizes of $1 million or more were awarded to 44 lucky Texas Lottery players. In all, players received almost $2.3 billion in prizes this year.

Of the $1.095 billion in transfers to the state, slightly more than $1 billion went directly to the Foundation School Fund, which supports public education in Texas. An additional $7.3 million went to the Texas Veterans Commission from the sales of a new instant scratch-off game dedicated to veterans’ assistance, and other state programs benefitted from almost $87 million in unclaimed lottery prizes.

So keep playing the Games of Texas! When you play, Texas wins!
He’s been playing Texas Lottery games since day one, but one summer day was a little different for Jon Angell of Hondo. He stopped at the Noor Pantry, 8005 Bandera Road in San Antonio, on August 16 and purchased some tickets, as he often does. But this was no ordinary Monday morning purchase. Outside the store, he scratched off an Instant Powerball® ticket that revealed a top prize worth $100,000.

“I was dumbfounded when I saw this. I stared at the ticket for about five minutes,” said Angell. Finally, Angell went back in the store and used their Check-a-Ticket terminal to be sure he’d really won. After sharing his excitement with the store clerk, he went to the Texas Lottery claim center in San Antonio to claim his prize.

Angell wasted no time making plans for his prize money. He’ll put part of the money in savings and use the rest to fix up some land he and his wife purchased.

Angell said he’ll continue buying his favorite tickets. “Now I have even more incentive to play.”

Store clerks will say that some lottery players are superstitious, refusing to buy the last ticket on a roll. Raymond D Bigham of Rio Vista, is not such a person. In October, he stopped at the store where he frequently buys Texas Lottery tickets—Boney Joe’s, located at 100 South Highway 174 in Rio Vista. He bought the last $500,000,000 Blockbuster on the ticket roll, and it brought him a $2.5 million prize!

“The store clerk tried to sell me that last ticket, but I bought something else and wound up winning some money,” Bigham said. “I told him I’d get that last Blockbuster ticket off his hands. After I saw the prize and even after he ran it through the terminal, I didn’t believe I had this prize.”

Besides playing scratch-offs, Bigham enjoys Daily 4™, which recently brought him a prize of $2,400. He gave that prize to his parents to use as a down payment for a piece of property close to his home. Bigham planned to use his prize money to pay off that property, pay his debts and save most of the rest.

“My ‘blow-it’ money will go to buying a Harley-Davidson motorcycle,” he said.
